The Big Ship Coming.
J. A. Farrell Not Worried.
G. E. Mitchell Is Cheerful,
Faith and Works.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.)

YOU will learn Sunday or Monday of progress made by the giant Graf Zeppelin. Its departure from Germany, regardless of results in this particular flight, inaugurates real trans-Atlantic commercial flying.

When this was written, the great ship had been seen fighting a heavy gale above the Mediterranean, making only 25 miles an hour, one-third of the estimated speed. Today the air liner was half way between the Madeira and Bermuda.

THE dirigible will not be the final practical craft for ocean flight. A giant gas bag, offering such resistance to the wind, invites trouble, with especial danger from lightning.

All-metal heavier-than-air planes of terrific power, able to ignore waves of wind, as ocean steamers ignore heavier waves of water, will solve the problem.

AMONG the nations, America is fifth in steel exports. France, Germany, Great Britain and Belgium beat us in export trade.

James A. Farrell, head of the United States Steel, doesn't worry, for his one company makes more steel than all the companies of any other nation. There is comfort in that.

And whatever other foolish thing you may do, don't sell United States Steel short. Its untold orders the first of this month amount to 3,698,358 tons.

CHARLES E. MITCHELL, head of the National City bank, biggest in America, is back from Europe cheerful. Everything is all right, says he, with American business and prosperity.

Mr. Mitchell, who knows about money, handling billions of it and having made enormous profits for his stockholders, says "there's nothing in the expansion problem" to worry any one.

Bonds are cheaper than stocks," says he. But if asked to exchange stock in his bank for bonds he'd say, "No."

What's true of his stock is true of some other stocks, but you have to select the right ones. And don't gamble.

THE president says faith is the nation's need.

Faith is the beginning, good works is the result.

Faith in Providence, faith in yourself, in your country, in your associates. All faith is strength. But "I must work the works of Him that sent Me while it is day; the night cometh, when no man can work." Faith alone won't do, it's too easy.

JAPAN will send to Brazil at least 1,000 colonists each year. Nachiro Fukuhara, head of $5,000,000 Japanese syndicate, will direct colonization in the rich state of Para, source of excellent rubber.

Already one city in Brazil is inhabited almost exclusively by Japanese.

THE Japanese are kind to their children. No Japanese ever strikes a child. Consequently the children thrive, and families are big.

Grandchildren of Americans now living may see an important branch of Asia established on the continent south of us.

That is the business of Brazil and Japan, not ours.

MUSSOLINI says the Italian press is perfectly free, but it must not criticize Fascism, or his policies. Newspapers MAY criticize his violent playing if they choose.

BOND PROPOSAL IS GIVEN O. K.

Grant Street Parent-Teachers Indorse City Projects.

Proposed $160,000 city hall and $10,000 Central fire station bond issues were indorsed by the Grant street Parent-Teacher association at a meeting in the school building last night.

The action followed addresses by Solicitor Frank H. Hoover and Service-Safety Director John W. Moore. Solicitor Hoover explained that the city is now paying approximately $3,000 a year in rentals for the municipal court, water works office, health board quarters and other offices. This means that approximately $75,000 will be spent in 25 years, the life of the proposed bonds.

Moore pointed out that the proposed two-mill bond issue levy submitted a few years ago will expire next year, and this will mean a reduction in the tax rate. The approval of the two bond proposals will cost less than one-half mill tax, it is said. Councilmen and other city officials have expressed willingness to appear before any civic organization prior to the November election to discuss the proposed bond issues.

SALVATION ARMY ASKS $7,500 FUND

RELIEF BUDGET DRIVE WILL BE LAUNCHED HERE ON OCTOBER 23

W. A. Weaver, Wholesale Grocer, Campaign Chairman.

APPOINTS AIDES

One Hundred Workers To Attend Dinner On October 23.

One-day campaign to collect $7,500 for the Salvation Army's relief budget, will be conducted in the East Liverpool district probably Tuesday, October 23. Field Major Joseph Hughes announced today.

W. A. Weaver, wholesale grocer, has been named campaign chairman. His aides are now being selected. The canvass will be made by 100 workers who will be organized into teams.

Workers will meet for dinner in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A. at 6 o'clock Monday night, October 22, according to the tentative plans. List of prospective contributors will be distributed and the plan of campaign outlined. Solicitation will start Tuesday morning, the workers reporting at 6 o'clock at night.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR G. O. P. RALLY

Plans for a Republican rally which will be held probably within the next two weeks, were discussed at a meeting of the Republican central committee in the municipal courtroom, last night.

Two speakers from state headquarters have been assigned, but their names will not be announced until a definite date for the meeting has been fixed. The rally probably will be held in the high school auditorium.

In the absence of Chairman Willis Davidson, Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley presided last night. Talks were made by Mrs. R. L. Cawood, chairman of the G. O. P. women's organization; S. B. Burgess, W. S. Foulks and R. C. Heddlston. Committee reports were also made.

TWO OHIO BABIES ARE SMOTHERED

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 13.—Two children died of suffocation here today in separate tragedies.

Mary, the year-old daughter of Mrs. Hazel Butler, was found dead in bed by her mother.

James, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Kaulfoid, was found dead in his crib by his mother.

Suffocation was caused by bed clothes in each instance.

THEATER ROBBER GETS 15 YEARS

Ronald Coleman, East Liverpool youth, charged with looting the Strand theater at Sebring last June, was sentenced to serve from one to 15 years in the Mansfield reformatory by Judge George Gessner in the Mahoning county courts, Youngstown, yesterday.

Coleman was arrested here about three weeks after the robbery and was turned over to Sebring authorities. He and three companions who were not arrested, are alleged to have taken the safe from the theater to a point outside the city where it was battered open. It contained about $325.

CALL RED CROSS MEETING MONDAY

Plans for the annual roll call will be discussed at a meeting of the East Liverpool chapter of the Red Cross which will be held in the banquet hall of the Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 o'clock Monday night.

Members of the executive committee and other "interested" persons have been invited to attend the session, called by Mrs. Florence Moss Bowers, secretary of the chapter.

Despondent Man Jumps to Death.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 13.—Despondent over the recent death of his wife, Stephen Marti, 63, was dead here today, having jumped 25 feet from a second story window in his home. He died two hours after the leap in a hospital.

NEW MINISTER

Rev. Robert C. Beechley, former pastor of the Kinsman Road Methodist Episcopal church, Cleveland, has taken charge of the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, succeeding the Rev. George C. Westlake, who was transferred to North Randall, suburb of Cleveland. The new pastor has been in the ministry for 38 years.

PENN AVENUE CHURCH PASTOR IS WELCOMED

About 100 Attend Reception for Rev. R. C. Beechley.

MINISTERS SPEAK Musical Program is Given by Methodist Congregation.

The Rev. Robert C. Beechley, pastor of the Pennsylvania Avenue Methodist church, and Mrs. Beechley were tendered a reception by members of the congregation in the assembly room of the church, last night. About 100 members and friends of the church attended.

Addresses were made by the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Beechley, the Rev. J. P. Wiseman, pastor of the Boyce church; the Rev. Frederic A. Dean, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, and the Rev. W. T. McCandless, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian church. Selections were sung by the choir, directed by Mrs. C. H. Risinger. F. P. Wherry presided.

At the conclusion of the program refreshments were served by Mrs. W. B. Latta and F. P. Wherry and Harold T. Goodballet.

OHIO MAN, ILL, SHOOTS HIMSELF

CHILLICOTHE, O., Oct. 13.—B. W. Stockman, 42, was dead here today, a gunshot victim.

Stockman had been ill for ten days with typhoid fever. Yesterday, on the pretext he wanted a glass of water, he sent his wife from the room, it is said, drew a shotgun from its concealment under the bed clothes and placing the gun to his head pulled the trigger.

His mother, widow and five children survive.

G. O. P. WOMEN MEET MONDAY

Rally Will Be Held in Carnegie Library.

Meeting of the East Liverpool Women's Republican club will be held in the Carnegie library, East Fourth street and Broadway, at 7:30 o'clock Monday night.

Mrs. R. L. Cawood, city chairman, will urge Republican women to register on Friday or Saturday of next week, if they expect to vote at the November 6 general election. Mrs. J. H. Brookes, president of the newly formed Hoover-Curtis club, will explain the membership campaign which is now being conducted. Mrs. Ella Marshall Cronin, county women's chairman, will discuss the campaign in a general way.

All Republican women have been invited to attend the meeting.

Big Dance, Lake Park, Alliance, Sunday. Good music.

HOOVER GREETED 150 BUSINESS MEN BOOSTERS IN WASHINGTON

G. O. P. Committee Host to "Lucky" Publishers.

THREE GROUPS

Candidate Will Leave for Boston Sunday Night.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON. WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—After spending 48 hours in virtual seclusion, Herbert Hoover returned to the campaign trenches today to receive three business organizations at his headquarters.

The Republican nominee was to play host to the "Lucky" Business Paper Publishers' Hoover for President committee, the Business Men's Republican association and the Engineers for Hoover committee. The three delegations, totaling about 150 men, came in private cars from New York, Cleveland and Chicago.

Visited Coolidge in 1924. Republican leaders look upon the Business Papers' Publishers organization as "lucky" because the same delegations visited President Coolidge at the White House during the 1924 campaign and told him they were bringing him political "luck." Coolidge won the election by a 7,000,000 majority and the Hoover strategists hope history will repeat itself.

The nominee spent Thursday and Friday at his home, working upon the New York speech, which will be delivered October 22, and which will deal with business subjects. He already has completed the Boston speech, to be delivered Monday night, and it will deal almost entirely with the tariff and foreign trade.

The Republican national committee issued a bulletin, commenting on the speech Hoover will make in Boston and confirming the prediction that it would deal with the tariff and foreign trade.

Cite Hoover's Record.

The committee also called attention to Hoover's record as secretary of commerce, when the nominees used every agency of the government to expand foreign trade and open new foreign markets for American goods. It further stated Hoover's address would be broadcast over a coast-to-coast radio hookup, beginning with WCHS in Portland, Me., and ending with KGW in Portland, Ore.

Hoover will leave here for Boston late Sunday night, stopping in Springfield and Worcester Monday morning and motoring into Boston from one of the suburban towns. He will leave for home immediately after his address.

INDUSTRY GIRL STRUCK BY AUTO

Elizabeth, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Amon, Industry, Pa., is in the East Liverpool City hospital suffering from a fractured skull and a fractured thigh bone, sustained at 9:30 o'clock this morning when struck by an automobile while crossing the road near her home. Her condition is serious.

Driver of the motor car, whose name was not learned, reported to the Midland police. He was directed to report the accident to the state highway office at Beaver Falls and his name was not taken.

Dr. L. L. Hunter, Midland, who attended the child, ordered her taken to the hospital. She was brought here in an automobile.

AIRPORT BOARD TO VISIT HERE

Committee from the Standard Airport corporation, Toledo, will come to East Liverpool next week to complete arrangements for the establishment of a flying school at the Chamber of Commerce field in Madison township.

The delegation will include George O. Wells, manager of the transcontinental airport at Toledo, and Carl Keiner and Herman Atkinson, pilots. Atkinson is a former government flier, having been in the army air service in the Hawaiian Islands for several years.

The school operators have promised to bring two planes to East Liverpool. Portable hangars will be erected at the airport.

Fire Damages Fence

Fence enclosing storage building of the Stouvenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company in Harvey avenue, was damaged by fire at 10:30 o'clock this morning. The blaze, according to firemen started from a rubbish heap. Firemen used one line of hose to extinguish the blaze.

SKIPPERS OF BIGGEST AIRCRAFT

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, and Commander Rosendahl, U. S. N., skipper of the dirigible Los Angeles, photographed just prior to the take-off of the German super-dirigible for America. The American naval officer is accompanying Dr. Eckener on the Graf Zeppelin's trans-Atlantic flight.

State Praises Guards In Fatal Prison Fire

USE UMBRELLAS HERE NEXT WEEK

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Weather outlook for the period October 15 to 20, inclusive:

Ohio Valley—A period of showers about Tuesday and again about Friday. Cool at the beginning of the week, followed by warmer weather the middle and latter parts.

SHRINERS PLAN CLEVELAND TRIP

Plans for attending the fall ceremonial of Al Koran temple, which will be held in Cleveland Friday, October 26, were discussed at a meeting of 60 members of the Shriners' club in the Masonic temple, Broadway, last night.

Albert McLean, E. M. Diehl and William Galbraith were named to arrange for transportation. The trip will be made in motor buses, leaving here at 8 a. m. The ceremonial will include a parade in the afternoon, followed by an initiation at night. A section of the auditorium will be reserved for the East Liverpool lodge men.

The club also extended its thanks to all persons who assisted in the success of the ceremonial which was held in East Liverpool Wednesday, August 29.

An oyster supper was served at the conclusion of the meeting.

LIFT EXPRESS SHIPMENT BAN

Ban on express shipments to New York which was established in East Liverpool several days ago because of the express drivers' and truckmen's strike in New York will be lifted Monday, C. W. Hoffmann, agent at the local office of the American Railway Express company, announced today.

Shipments of perishable goods were accepted today. Starting Monday all shipments will be taken.

The ban was lifted following settlement of the strike.

MRS. SAVAGE, 60, WIDOW, DIES

Funeral Services Will be Held Monday Morning.

Mrs. Sarah Savage, 60, widow of Patrick Savage, died yesterday afternoon in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Sullivan, 655 Walnut street.

Mrs. Savage, who was born in County Down, Ireland, had lived in East Liverpool for 38 years. She was a member of the St. Aloysius Catholic church.

Besides her daughter, she leaves two sons, Michael, Chester, W. Va., and Felix, East Liverpool, and three brothers, Patrick, Fisher, Cleveland; Michael, Fisher, Chardon, and William, Fisher, Shamokin, Pa.

Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock Monday morning in the St. Aloysius church, in charge of the Rev. Father Thomas E. Walsh. Burial will be made in St. Aloysius cemetery.

Cigaret or Hot Ashes Blamed for Junction City Penal Brick Plant Blaze in Which 15 Died.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 13.—Belief that "everything possible was done to save the lives of the prisoners" in connection with the fire which resulted in the death of 15 persons at the state brick plant, Junction City, on the morning of October 8, was recorded by Welfare Director John E. Harper, in a report which he submitted today to the office of Governor Vic Donahue.

"We have nothing but praise and commendation for the good work of the officers and the behavior of the prisoners," Harper told the governor. Harper's report covered a joint probe conducted by himself, J. B. Youngblood, consulting engineer of the state welfare department; J. E. Clark, manager of the state's prison industries, and Enos L. Jenkins, state superintendent of construction, along with newspapermen.

Gives Credit to Deputy Warden.

Three possible causes for the fire which destroyed, also, the building used as a kitchen, dining room and dormitory for 268 prisoners, were mentioned in Harper's report to the governor—"a lighted cigaret, or hot pipe ashes thrown down in the clothes room when workmen changed their clothes at 9:30 p. m. the night before; spontaneous combustion, or a short circuit in the electric wiring."

Harper was inclined to believe that the fire started from a cigaret or hot ashes.

"Particular credit is due James C. Woodard, deputy warden of the Ohio penitentiary, who first reported the fire to me, a few minutes after it occurred and who was placed in complete charge of the situation," said Harper.

Harper's Report to Governor.

"The 268 prisoners who escaped from the burning building were sparsely clad and hungry, and had not Mr. Woodard immediately dispatched a number of guards from Columbus by automobile, and, later, three truckloads of clothing, blankets and food, we might have had a greater loss of life, due to exposure, and a very serious guarding situation," Harper told Donahue.

"Mr. Woodard, after attending to these most necessary details then took along additional guards and arrived at the plant some time before 5 o'clock in time to send the first truckload of injured back to the penitentiary (at Columbus)," said Harper.

Touring Car Reported Stolen

Ford touring car, owned by John Solazo, Youngstown, was stolen while parked in front of the Euclid hotel between 4 and 5 o'clock this morning, according to a report made to police.

WIND RIPS OFF COVERING OF STABILIZER OF BIG AIR LINER

Sixty Persons Aboard. Are Safe, Radio Message Says.

SPEED REDUCED

Dr. Eckener Makes No Reply to Ship Calls.

(Copyright, 1928, By International News Service. Reproduction of this dispatch wholly or in part is absolutely forbidden.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The mighty Graf Zeppelin, en route from Friedrichshafen to New York and Lakehurst, N. J., with 60 persons on board and a cargo of mails, met with an accident today when it ran into a sudden squall, according to a radiogram direct from the ship.

No Cause for Alarm. The covering of the stabilizer was torn off, but repairs were started at once.

The message from the Zeppelin was sent to the New York American by its staff correspondent aboard the air liner, Karl von Wiegand.

WIND SWEEPING ROUTE OF GRAF

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The U. S. weather bureau had reports today indicating a 16-mile-an-hour south wind between the Azores and Bermuda along the route of the Graf Zeppelin.

The weather was reported as overcast with occasional showers but no rain.

The message, which was sent at noon, said that all are safe and there is no cause for alarm.

Members of the crew set to work repairing and covering the stabilizer as soon as it emerged from the squall.

The dirigible proceeded on its way at the reduced speed of 40 miles an hour.

It was estimated in Berlin that the gainess would pass over Bermuda tomorrow morning and that she would reach New York Sunday night or Monday morning, circling the city, then proceeding to Lakehurst to land the passengers.

Weather observers said there were indications of bad weather between Bermuda and New York which might detain the ship.

Navy Ready to Rush Assistance.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The navy department today ordered light cruisers and destroyers to stand by at Hampton Roads, Va., and Charleston, S. C., to rush to the assistance of the Graf (Count) Zeppelin in event of an emergency.

This precaution was taken when a message was received direct from the dirigible asking the navy to have vessels stand by along the route of the flight because of damage to the port horizontal stabilizer of the airship.

Convention of Housewives.

East Liverpool this year has entertained three conventions, two of state and one of national significance, including the grand lodge of the Knights of Malta, Ohio Ceramic Industries association and National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, as well as a tri-state ceremonial of the Ancient Arabic Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, all, in the main, organizations of men. And now the Ceramic City will be the scene of a fourth convention, and this will be exclusively for women.

The Review's fourth annual free cooking school, which will open a four-day session in the Eagles' auditorium, Broadway, Tuesday, is in every sense of the expression a convention of housewives who are interested in solving problems which, it is claimed, are responsible for 75 per cent. of the discontent in the world and 50 per cent. of the unhappiness of married life. For poor cooking is blamed for most of the marital discord.

Whether this belief is sustained by the divorce statistics is not known, but, if there is any foundation for the contention, the free cooking school offers a solution of the vexatious troubles that confront the young bride and perhaps her mother or grandmother.

As a matter of fact everybody who is interested in the various phases of running a home is invited to attend the Review's cooking school, where Mrs. Frances Northcross, of New York City, but a native of Asheville, N. C., who is a home economics expert, will lecture on the art of cooking, prepare tasty dishes and give other cookery demonstrations. And modern kitchen equipment will be used by the lecturer, who for many years was a dietitian for hotels in the South.

Every woman has questions of some sort in her mind relative to cookery and home economic matters, and the cooking school will be the place to have them answered by an authority whose contact with women and modern appliances and methods throughout the land puts her in an especially advantageous position to give good advice.

East Liverpool district women, it will pay you to attend the convention of housewives.

Outstanding Examples in Sport

Sports, as they are engaged in by the young men and women of the United States, are popularly supposed to be a field for collective effort, rather than a field where the individual dominates. Such, however, is not the case.

Take the recent world series, for example. Col. Ruppert, owner of the New York Americans, was the object of nation-wide sympathy before the series opened. His team was all crippled up. The St. Louis Nationals would breeze away with another world championship. It would be a massacre—slaughter of the innocents, and all that sort of thing.

But what did Col. Ruppert's hypochondriacs do? They fell, in all their illness, in their frightfully crippled condition, on the enemy and annihilated them. The thing which was to have been a pushover for St. Louis, resolved itself into a rout for the Nationals, and they were on the defensive all the way.

But the series just closed proved one thing, if not several. It emphasized the fact that without George Herman Ruth and Columbia Lou Gehrig, the New York Yankees would fall far short of being anywhere near the smashing, tearing, ripping ball team that it is. This fact may have been suspected by astute minds prior to the series just closed, but the classic was the proof of the pudding.

Mr. Ruth gave the greatest exhibition of world series batting ever seen in this country. And his fence-busting teammate was on the job as clean-up man, assailing all and sundry pitching gentlemen with a weapon of ash almost as ponderous as the one the Bambino swings.

Any recapitulation of the late series will disclose that it was Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig who won the championship for the Yankees. It takes nine men to make up a ball club, but in the case of the New York Americans seven of them are more decorative than otherwise.

The dominant individual in sports is not confined altogether to baseball, either. In golf there isn't an amateur anywhere in the world who is one-two-three with Bobby Jones, the Atlanta barrister. When Red Grange, the celebrated Astoria iceman, was galloping up and down the gridirons of the country, there wasn't a collegian who could lay a hand on him. When Trudy Ederle was somewhat thinner than she is today, and engaged in aquatics, she could spot her contemporaries at least a high dive and a couple of splashes, and beat them home with ease. In tennis, how many years has Big Bill Tilden ruled the roost? Until the memory of man runneth not to the contrary. And look at Col. Lindbergh!

Each sport, it seems, has developed an outstanding example.

No Lifetime Job

In view of the report that 22 of our ministers, who went to their present posts from the foreign service of the state department, had entered into a tentative agreement to try to hold on to their present posts at the retirement of President Coolidge, the White House announcement that the incoming president will have full power to remove his high diplomatic representatives abroad at will, is timely. Mr. Coolidge makes it plain that any attempt of such appointees to entrench themselves in their positions will be futile. There could be no greater absurdity than that a president should be represented abroad by those who might be unfriendly to him and his administration.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 13.—The birth of the Republican party in 1856, rising Phoenix-like out of the ashes of the ruins of the defeated opposition to Democracy in 1852, stands out as one of the remarkable political events of American history. Four years before the country had been almost unanimous in favor of the adjustment of the slavery question as made by the compromise of 1850, but the southern Democrats, not content with that, proceeded to push their advantage further under Pierce, and the Republican party sprang, full grown, into the arena of politics, as a protest against such a course. It remained for Pennsylvania, in a race in which the Democracy won by an eyelash finish, to cast the vote which, the only time in its history, put one of its sons into the White House and kept out of it a man whose election probably would have meant disunion and civil war four years before they came.

Many historians have speculated as to what would have happened had fusion won in Pennsylvania in 1856 and Fremont succeeded Pierce in the White House. That secession would have followed seems inevitable. And what would Fremont have done in the presidential chair if such an event had come about? Many a northern authority has registered his vow of thankfulness that by the narrow majority of 1925 votes Pennsylvania postponed until 1860 the pivotal election in American politics.

The Republican party met in Pittsburgh on Washington's birthday, and called a national convention to convene in Philadelphia on Bunker Hill day. The thought of most of the delegates turned to William H. Seward. Seward declined the nomination; yet his declination was not of his own wish. Thurlow Weed had forced him to it, and he frequently hinted to friends that Weed had betrayed him for Fremont.

Salmon P. Chase was considered for the nomination, and Justice McLean, who had been on the supreme court bench since 1829, also was talked of.

In the end John C. Fremont was nominated. His political principles were little better known than were those of Zachary Taylor when the Whigs nominated him in 1848. A bolting faction of the Know Nothing Party had nominated Fremont some time before and the Republicans sought to add that strength to their own. Lincoln was a candidate before the convention for vice president and received 110 votes on one ballot, but W. L. Dayton of New Jersey was nominated over him. Lincoln favored the nomination of Justice McLean and urged E. B. Washburne and other friends to do all they could in behalf of the eminent jurist.

The Know Nothings, of whom Horace Greeley wrote that they had, as a party, about as many of the elements of permanence as an anti-potato-rot party, held their national convention on Washington's birthday, their national council having three days before drawn up the party platform. A split was precipitated by Fremont's friends over the right of the council to take away from the convention the framing of the platform. The regulars nominated ex-President Fillmore and Samuel J. Donelson.

The Democrats met in Cincinnati, holding there the first national convention which ever met west of the Alleghenies. Although President Pierce was a candidate for renomination, it was early seen that the party course was to be determined from the fact that the nominee would have to carry some northern states to win and Pierce was unpopular in the north. So Buchanan got the nomination with John C. Breckinridge as his running mate.

Pennsylvania witnessed a fusion of the Know Nothings and the Republicans—in Pennsylvania known as the Peoples' party. Both parties nominated the same electors and it was understood that if Pennsylvania's vote should prove determinative of the result, and fusion won, Fremont was to have it. Otherwise, the electors were to be divided as the voters had voted between Fillmore and Fremont. But fusion had no chance to work out the deal for that 1925 votes by which Buchanan won, determined the result and possibly changed the entire course of American history.

Fillmore had no idea of winning in the popular election, but he did hope so to divide the vote between the Democrats and the Republicans that the election would be thrown into the house. The closeness of the vote in Pennsylvania shows how nearly he guessed it. The electoral vote was, Buchanan 174, Fremont, 114, Fillmore, 8. After Buchanan was elected he tried to get the country to forget about the slavery issue. In his inaugural address he referred to a forthcoming decision of the supreme court, and Seward, alleged that there was collusion between Chief Justice Taney and Buchanan. This so angered Taney that he declared afterward that if Seward had been elected president in 1860 he would have refused to administer the oath to him. And yet Lincoln repeatedly made the same charge without driving Taney to such a refusal. All fair authorities acquit Buchanan and Taney of any collusion.

Tomorrow: The Four-Cornered Fight of 1860.

Questions And Answers

By Frederic J. Haskin.

Stop a minute and think about this fact. You can ask our Information Bureau any question of fact and get the answer back in a personal letter. It is a great educational idea introduced into the lives of the most intelligent people in the world—American newspaper readers. It is a part of that best purpose of a newspaper—service. There is no charge except two cents in coin or stamps for return postage. Get the habit of asking questions. Address your letter to the East Liverpool Review Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. How large is the largest fireboat in use at the present time? D. J. A. The largest in this country and probably in the world is the fireboat Deluge, owned and operated by the Board of Commissioners of the Port of New Orleans, an agency of the State of Louisiana. The Deluge cost $264,474 equipped, pumps 14,000 gallons of water a minute at 150 pounds pressure and can throw 36 streams simultaneously, and has developed a speed of 16 1/2 miles 136 r. p. m.

Q. How large is a football field? S. E. L. A. Football is played on a rectangular field, 360 feet by 160 feet.

Q. In the list of supplies taken by Commander Byrd on his Antarctic Expedition, appear items of grain alcohol, and intoxicating beverages. How is this explained? J. M. J. A. Commander Byrd secured a permit which gave him permission to take alcohol on his expedition to the South Pole. Grain alcohol was needed for equipment and the rum, wine, etc., were for purely medicinal purposes.

Turning Back Pages of Memory

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The architectural changes and sweep of trade have not given Fifth Avenue the gaiety and its valiant protectors expected. Those who predicted it would become flashy like Broadway were wrong. It is still "the avenue."

In my early days in New York most big establishments were without identification signs as Tiffany's is today. While there are no projecting signs over the sidewalk or electrical displays now, the windows and doorways are generously lettered.

But even the red fronted five and tens, chain drug stores and the white enameled, cateries have failed to lose Fifth Avenue's dignity. Park Avenue has doubtless passed it as a tony residential section, but among New Yorkers the avenue remains "the aristocrat of streets."

No thoroughfare in the city has undergone such a complete change in the past five years. People away for several years are unable to recognize certain sections at all. Only the stately library lions, St. Patrick's cathedral spire and St. Thomas's gargoyles recall other days.

The air of residential bliss pervading the several blocks northward from Washington Arch has vanished. Of all the famous homes the one once occupied by Mark Twain remains. In their stead have come apartment houses and hotels with ornate fronts.

Even the antiquated and charming old Brevoort is modernized and now has man-sized elevators and a bath for every room. With the exception of the Waldorf, nearly all the avenue hotels another generation knew so well have been torn down.

When the Vanderbilt mansion was razed at the Plaza fountain park on its site, its defenders threw up their hands. They said the avenue was through and its charm was gone. Yet it remains as important and almost as dignified as ever it was. It was a street with "it."

Another old time touch remaining on Fifth Avenue are the antiquarian dodos who twiddle their thumbs in valuetudinarian ease in roomy club windows. They seem to spend their days gazing at sidewalk crowds, turning to the financial pages and dodging out at 5 o'clock for a promenade. Their manner is starchy as their standup collars and their conversation as crisp as their closely cut mustaches—the last of the vanishing aristocrats.

However, all Fifth Avenue clubmen do not conform to this sedate type. There is one who went visiting in the west and after a few days' hurried courtship married a professional cowgirl—a bronk buster with a rodeo outfit—to the indignation, mortification and eternal damnation of several sons who had to quit a life of luxury and begin punching a clock.

A theatrical boarding house in West 49th street has this blunt sign in its dining room: "If you are that good, why are you boarding here?"

Just one ordinary drink these days and you begin to cherish a hope the orchestra will play louder, for heaven's sake, so, whatever you do, there will be no panic. A second drink and you spend the next morning peering out the window to see how many stray bodies are in the courtyard.

For no reason at all it occurs to me that Cliff is a dandy name for one of those bachelor men about town.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The architectural changes and sweep of trade have not given Fifth Avenue the gaiety and its valiant protectors expected. Those who predicted it would become flashy like Broadway were wrong. It is still "the avenue."

In my early days in New York most big establishments were without identification signs as Tiffany's is today. While there are no projecting signs over the sidewalk or electrical displays now, the windows and doorways are generously lettered.

But even the red fronted five and tens, chain drug stores and the white enameled, cateries have failed to lose Fifth Avenue's dignity. Park Avenue has doubtless passed it as a tony residential section, but among New Yorkers the avenue remains "the aristocrat of streets."

No thoroughfare in the city has undergone such a complete change in the past five years. People away for several years are unable to recognize certain sections at all. Only the stately library lions, St. Patrick's cathedral spire and St. Thomas's gargoyles recall other days.

The air of residential bliss pervading the several blocks northward from Washington Arch has vanished. Of all the famous homes the one once occupied by Mark Twain remains. In their stead have come apartment houses and hotels with ornate fronts.

Even the antiquated and charming old Brevoort is modernized and now has man-sized elevators and a bath for every room. With the exception of the Waldorf, nearly all the avenue hotels another generation knew so well have been torn down.

When the Vanderbilt mansion was razed at the Plaza fountain park on its site, its defenders threw up their hands. They said the avenue was through and its charm was gone. Yet it remains as important and almost as dignified as ever it was. It was a street with "it."

Another old time touch remaining on Fifth Avenue are the antiquarian dodos who twiddle their thumbs in valuetudinarian ease in roomy club windows. They seem to spend their days gazing at sidewalk crowds, turning to the financial pages and dodging out at 5 o'clock for a promenade. Their manner is starchy as their standup collars and their conversation as crisp as their closely cut mustaches—the last of the vanishing aristocrats.

However, all Fifth Avenue clubmen do not conform to this sedate type. There is one who went visiting in the west and after a few days' hurried courtship married a professional cowgirl—a bronk buster with a rodeo outfit—to the indignation, mortification and eternal damnation of several sons who had to quit a life of luxury and begin punching a clock.

A theatrical boarding house in West 49th street has this blunt sign in its dining room: "If you are that good, why are you boarding here?"

Just one ordinary drink these days and you begin to cherish a hope the orchestra will play louder, for heaven's sake, so, whatever you do, there will be no panic. A second drink and you spend the next morning peering out the window to see how many stray bodies are in the courtyard.

For no reason at all it occurs to me that Cliff is a dandy name for one of those bachelor men about town.

Address, "Shall We Go Forward With Missionary Work?" Mrs. Joseph Hughes of the Salvation Army.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Frank Gregg and her committee.

The next meeting will be in charge of the men's division, with A. M. Fisher as captain. The date will be announced later.

Highland Country Club Entertains.

Fifty guests attended the bridge and dancing party held Thursday night in the Highland Country club. The music was in charge of the Smith and Jeanguenat trio. Vocal selections were given by C. H. McGee and W. E. Beeler. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mesdames W. H. Cordwin, W. F. Bailey and Roy McVay.

The men of the club will entertain with a dance and winner sizzle next Thursday. On Friday, October 19, the club members will be guests of a social whirl at the home of Mrs. George Mountford in McKinnon avenue, with Mrs. John Plattenberg of New Cumberland as associate hostess.

Hostess at Masquerade Party.

Mrs. George Miller entertained with a masquerade party recently at her home in May street. The home was decorated in keeping with the Halloween season. Music, games and fortune telling were the diversions, trophies being awarded Mrs. Hugh S. Cunningham and Misses Edna Ward.

"Home Missions in India" Topic.

The Young Women's Missionary society of the First United Presbyterian church will meet in the men's class room Monday night at 7:45 o'clock, the subject to be "Home Missions in India." Miss Grace Ogilvie will be the leader. After the roll call by Miss Mae Bratt, Mrs. Mary Warner will be in charge of a praise and song service. Mrs. Frank Roberts will speak on "What Part Do the Women of India Have in the Work of the Church," and Miss Ida McBride, on "Some of the Encouraging Features of the Work in India." Reports from the Presbyterian convention will be given after which a business session will be held.

Plan Halloween Party.

Patsy Rossi Custom Made Clothes Guaranteed for Fit, Comfort, Satisfaction

Your Natural Desire for Individuality Demands Clothing Built For You Alone; Try Rossi For Your Next Suit.

No machine can produce a Rembrandt painting.

And—neither can a mere piece of machinery put the skill of human fingers, brains and expression into the clothes that you wear.

A shabby coat may cover a go-getter but no one has any way of knowing it until it has been proven. And the man who looks as though he had been assembled in the dark, who has spots on his clothes, whose trousers bag at the knees, whose coat needs pressing and whose shoes need polishing, and who has absolutely no idea of what it's all about certainly can't expect to be a howling success among men who do.

But, some one shouts, tailor made clothes are expensive. No, says Patsy Rossi, and Rossi is a tailor who knows and, further, asks the opportunity of proving what he says.

But even if that were true, folks—even if it did cost a few dollars more—why . . . wouldn't your own success be worth that?

Dress has an important influence on any man's appearance in business circles. It may be a matter of a man's acceptance as a leader or as a successful person in this swiftly moving world.

The cut and style of clothes count tremendously. Clothes custom made are distinctly fashionable, directly in contrast to others. Further than this there is the positive individuality of fit to the custom-made clothes and the becoming pattern of all wool cloth personally selected, fabric exactly suited to the man, in characteristic design, color and weave.

There was a time when quality solely influenced the fine art of making clothes. In every garment excellent hand work was strikingly apparent. Clothes were well made and the cost was only of secondary consideration. Then came the era of price. And the battle between quality and price still is being waged.

But listen, you men, would you sacrifice personal appearance and individuality?

Patsy Rossi is exclusive agent here for four big houses in the custom tailoring line. Besides he also makes high quality garments in his own workshop when the customer prefers.

And the customer gets comfort, workmanship, reasonable price and—the most important of all—the satisfaction of knowing he is correctly dressed.

For many years Mr. Rossi sold clothing tailored exclusively in his own shop. But now, in addition to that, he can give you nationally known lines.

Every stitch in a Rossi garment binds the maker to a guarantee of solid worth. The clothes MUST be good. The guarantee is there. And of course you know the Rossi shop is complete in all other respects

—dry cleaning, pressing, altering and repairing. For his pressing work, Mr. Rossi uses the latest Hoffman Klear-Buk machine.

That's the story, in brief, and the climax of it is value.

You'll find value not only in the quality of the woollens, the character of the tailoring, the correctness of the fit, the smart individuality of the style but also in the extreme reasonableness of Rossi charges. He has new exclusive patterns in all fall colors.

Won't you consider your own welfare, Mr. Man, in the matter of dress? The Patsy Rossi shop is just a few steps south in Washington street, off Fifth. It is easy to get to. You'll find its owner easy to like, and you'll realize, once you try, that buying that way also is easy.

Air Circus Program Is Scheduled Sunday

M. R. Ruble, Inventor of Zenith Craft, Plans Exhibition of Stunt Flying at Glasgow Field.

WELLSVILLE, O., Oct. 13. — Completing arrangements for Sunday's "air circus," M. R. Ruble, inventor of the Zenith P-1 plane, today announced plans for an afternoon of aviation thrills at the Glasgow airport, including parachute jumps, wing walking, stunt flying and trapeze acts on a ladder dangling from a plane high above the ground.

The program is scheduled to start at 1:30 o'clock, although planes which will take part in the flights are expected to arrive early Sunday morning. Ruble expects to have five planes from various western Pennsylvania ports here for the day.

Among the events announced by Ruble for the afternoon are performances by "Daredevil" Hoover who will do a trapeze act on a ladder suspended from a plane. C. B. Knight, another stunt performer, will appear in a series of parachute drops, one a delayed jump, in which he will fall several hundred feet before he pulls the parachute cord.

Roy Pickering, test pilot for the Zenith, will be at the "stick" for most of the stunt flying.

In addition, there will be several planes at the field for carrying passengers.

PLAN YELLOW CREEK COURSE

Music and Addresses On Fall and Winter Program.

Program of music and addresses has been arranged by young people of the Yellow Creek Presbyterian church as a lecture and entertainment course during the fall and early winter.

The course is arranged as follows: Oct. 25.—C. McCoy Franklin, "Day break in the Mountains" Nov. 9, Arion Jubilee Singers; Nov. 27, Prof. J. H. Dickason, "Young America at the Bat"; Dec. 13, William Parson, lecture. The tickets for the course will be sold for one dollar.

Preaching services will be held Sunday in the church at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The Rev. K. J. Stewart, pastor, will speak in the morning on the subject, "A Church With a Passion." His evening theme will be, "The Spirit of God." Sunday school will meet at 10 a. m. Young people will convene at 7 p. m. The subject will be, "The Christian's Duty as a Voter." Mrs. Charles McIntosh and Kathryn Jack will be the leaders.

PENNSY CHECKS UP ON SAFETY

"Flash" Signals Promote Decrease in Accidents.

The first comparative tabulation made by the central region of the Pennsylvania railroad to determine the efficiency of flashing light signals as compared to other sorts of warning or protective agencies at points where public highways cross railroad tracks reveals a decrease of 32 per cent in accidents, despite the increase in automobile travel.

The survey covers 67 crossings in Pennsylvania railroad's central region, including the Pittsburgh-Cleveland-Buffalo territory, that have in the past six years been equipped with flashing light signals at a cost of $104,000. At 31 of these crossings there is no record of an accident before or since installation of the flashing lights.

At the 36 other crossings there have been accidents either before or after flashing light signals were put in place. For these particular crossings, the score of 57 to 30 measured in reportable accidents, is in favor of the flashing light signals.

In surveying the efficiency of these devices in each case, the accident record for the number of months since installation was compared to the record for the equal immediate prior period.

It was found that in one case, at Ravenna, where gates had been replaced by a flashing light 10 months ago, there has been no subsequent accidents while in the preceding 10 months there were three.

At two crossings where watchmen had been replaced by flashing lights the record shows five accidents in the comparative period prior to installation and six since. Most of the accidents since installation happened shortly after the devices were put in place.

In the last 16 months at these 20 crossings there has been but one accident and it did not result in a fatality. In view of the vastly heavier automobile traffic at these crossings, it is conceded that the flashing light signals have made an excellent record.

At 28 crossings where electric bell signals were replaced by flashing light, there were 17 accidents in the prior comparative period and 11 since, a decrease of 35 per cent in suite of auto travel growth.

At 49 crossings then, where flashing light signals have replaced other protective devices, there were 25 accidents, before, as compared to 17 since, a gain of 32 per cent in safety.

At the 18 crossings that had neither gates, watchmen nor bells, ahead of the installation of flashing lights, the accidents have decreased 57 per cent.

SALINEVILLE

Mrs. Mary Rogers Keating, 63, wife of the late Joseph Keating, died at her home on West Main street Thursday morning. She was a member of the Saint Patrick's Catholic church. Mrs. Keating is survived by four children, three daughters and one son: Mary at home; Mrs. Kate Hanley, Mrs. Charles Burns, and Michael Keating, of Salineville. She is survived by one sister, Miss Jennie Rogers. Funeral services were conducted in the St. Patrick's Catholic church by the Rev. Edward Conry this morning at 9 o'clock. Burial was made in the Catholic cemetery at Summitville.

Messrs. Howard Sinclair, J. C. Kelly and L. M. Johnson of Lisbon were business callers in town recently.

The concrete railings on the new bridge near the postoffice, has been completed.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cathcart and son left Wednesday on a trip to Kansas and Nebraska where they will visit with relatives for some weeks.

The Salineville high school football team defeated the Columbiana high school eleven yesterday afternoon at Salineville. The score was 14 to 6.

Patsy Rossi Custom Made Clothes Guaranteed for Fit, Comfort, Satisfaction

Your Natural Desire for Individuality Demands Clothing Built For You Alone; Try Rossi For Your Next Suit.

No machine can produce a Rembrandt painting.

And—neither can a mere piece of machinery put the skill of human fingers, brains and expression into the clothes that you wear.

A shabby coat may cover a go-getter but no one has any way of knowing it until it has been proven. And the man who looks as though he had been assembled in the dark, who has spots on his clothes, whose trousers bag at the knees, whose coat needs pressing and whose shoes need polishing, and who has absolutely no idea of what it's all about certainly can't expect to be a howling success among men who do.

But, some one shouts, tailor made clothes are expensive. No, says Patsy Rossi, and Rossi is a tailor who knows and, further, asks the opportunity of proving what he says.

But even if that were true, folks—even if it did cost a few dollars more—why . . . wouldn't your own success be worth that?

Dress has an important influence on any man's appearance in business circles. It may be a matter of a man's acceptance as a leader or as a successful person in this swiftly moving world.

The cut and style of clothes count tremendously. Clothes custom made are distinctly fashionable, directly in contrast to others. Further than this there is the positive individuality of fit to the custom-made clothes and the becoming pattern of all wool cloth personally selected, fabric exactly suited to the man, in characteristic design, color and weave.

There was a time when quality solely influenced the fine art of making clothes. In every garment excellent hand work was strikingly apparent. Clothes were well made and the cost was only of secondary consideration. Then came the era of price. And the battle between quality and price still is being waged.

But listen, you men, would you sacrifice personal appearance and individuality?

Patsy Rossi is exclusive agent here for four big houses in the custom tailoring line. Besides he also makes high quality garments in his own workshop when the customer prefers.

And the customer gets comfort, workmanship, reasonable price and—the most important of all—the satisfaction of knowing he is correctly dressed.

For many years Mr. Rossi sold clothing tailored exclusively in his own shop. But now, in addition to that, he can give you nationally known lines.

Every stitch in a Rossi garment binds the maker to a guarantee of solid worth. The clothes MUST be good. The guarantee is there.

And of course you know the Rossi shop is complete in all other respects

—dry cleaning, pressing, altering and repairing. For his pressing work, Mr. Rossi uses the latest Hoffman Klear-Buk machine.

That's the story, in brief, and the climax of it is value.

You'll find value not only in the quality of the woollens, the character of the tailoring, the correctness of the fit, the smart individuality of the style but also in the extreme reasonableness of Rossi charges. He has new exclusive patterns in all fall colors.

Won't you consider your own welfare, Mr. Man, in the matter of dress? The Patsy Rossi shop is just a few steps south in Washington street, off Fifth. It is easy to get to. You'll find its owner easy to like, and you'll realize, once you try, that buying that way also is easy.

Air Circus Program Is Scheduled Sunday

M. R. Ruble, Inventor of Zenith Craft, Plans Exhibition of Stunt Flying at Glasgow Field.

WELLSVILLE, O., Oct. 13. — Completing arrangements for Sunday's "air circus," M. R. Ruble, inventor of the Zenith P-1 plane, today announced plans for an afternoon of aviation thrills at the Glasgow airport, including parachute jumps, wing walking, stunt flying and trapeze acts on a ladder dangling from a plane high above the ground.

The program is scheduled to start at 1:30 o'clock, although planes which will take part in the flights are expected to arrive early Sunday morning. Ruble expects to have five planes from various western Pennsylvania ports here for the day.

Among the events announced by Ruble for the afternoon are performances by "Daredevil" Hoover who will do a trapeze act on a ladder suspended from a plane. C. B. Knight, another stunt performer, will appear in a series of parachute drops, one a delayed jump, in which he will fall several hundred feet before he pulls the parachute cord.

Roy Pickering, test pilot for the Zenith, will be at the "stick" for most of the stunt flying.

In addition, there will be several planes at the field for carrying passengers.

PLAN YELLOW CREEK COURSE

Preaching services will be held Sunday in the church at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The Rev. K. J. Stewart, pastor, will speak in the morning on the subject, "A Church With a Passion". His evening theme will be, "The Spirit of God". Sunday school will convene at 10 a. m. Young people will convene at 7 p. m. The subject will be, "The Christian's Duty as a Voter." Mrs. Charles McIntosh and Kathryn Jack will be the leaders.

Special services will be held in the church every night next week with the exception of Saturday. The pastor will be assisted by the Rev. C. J. Shumaker, Steubenville; the Rev. James Clark, Island Creek church; and the Rev. Frank H. Marshall, Harrison, moderator of the presbytery. Communion services will be held Oct. 21.

Pennsy Checks UP ON SAFETY

"Flash" Signals Promote Decrease in Accidents.

The first comparative tabulation made by the central region of the Pennsylvania railroad to determine the efficiency of flashing light signals as compared to other sorts of warning or protective agencies at points where public highways cross railroad tracks reveals a decrease of 32 per cent in accidents, despite the increase in automobile travel.

The survey covers 67 crossings in Pennsylvania railroad's central region, including the Pittsburgh-Cleveland-Buffalo territory, that have in the past six years been equipped with flashing light signals at a cost of $104,000. At 31 of these crossings there is no record of an accident before or since installation of the flashing lights.

At the 36 other crossings there have been accidents either before or after flashing light signals were put in place. For these particular crossings, the score of 57 to 30 measured in reportable accidents, is in favor of the flashing light signals.

In surveying the efficiency of these devices in each case, the accident record for the number of months since installation was compared to the record for the equal immediate prior period.

It was found that in one case, at Ravenna, where gates had been replaced by a flashing light 10 months ago, there has been no subsequent accidents while in the preceding 10 months there were three.

At two crossings where watchmen had been replaced by flashing lights the record shows five accidents in the comparative period prior to installation and six since. Most of the accidents since installation happened shortly after the devices were put in place.

In the last 16 months at these 20 crossings there has been but one accident and it did not result in a fatality. In view of the vastly heavier automobile traffic at these crossings, it is conceded that the flashing light signals have made an excellent record.

At 28 crossings where electric bell signals were replaced by flashing light, there were 17 accidents in the prior comparative period and 11 since, a decrease of 35 per cent in suite of auto travel growth.

At 49 crossings then, where flashing light signals have replaced other protective devices, there were 25 accidents, before, as compared to 17 since, a gain of 32 per cent in safety.

At the 15 crossings that had neither gates, watchmen nor bells, ahead of the installation of flashing lights, the accidents have decreased 57 per cent.

HAILS RECORD REGISTRATION AS REPUBLICAN VICTORY SIGN

John Q. Tilson Sees Hoover Sweep Along Seaboard.

NEW YORK TOPS Democratic Chairman Discounts Claims of G. O. P.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN
NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Record-breaking registration throughout the pivotal north Atlantic seaboard states was hailed today by Representative John Q. Tilson, director of the eastern G. O. P. Speakers Bureau, as a portent of "Certain Victory" for Herbert Hoover in every state in the section, including Governor Alfred E. Smith's own New York.

The increase in the total registration and the vastly disproportionate increase in the registration of women constitutes one of the most amazing phenomena of the presidential campaign to date, according to managers of both parties. Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee, vehemently discounts the Republican assertion that the increased registration signifies "an uprising of the feminine voters against Governor Smith's frontal attack on prohibition."

Baltimore Encourages G. O. P.
New York City leads the country in the increased registration, with still one day more for registry before election day, November 6. In the five boroughs of the metropolitan area, the Smith stronghold, the registry books show a total eligible voters list of 1,195,594. The full registration for the five boroughs in 1924 the previous record, was but 787,000. Thus, with the final day's registration added, the 1928 polling list will show an increase over the previous record for greater New York.

Baltimore also has greatly encouraged the Republican managers by registering 111,000 more voters this year than in the bitterly contested mayoralty contest of 1927. The increase amounts to slightly more than 50 per cent of the 1927 list. The women outnumbered men generally throughout the city, with a two-to-one proportion in some districts, according to detailed reports to Republican headquarters today from the state managers.

Philadelphia Figures High
Philadelphia, with a total registration of 740,000, is 210,000 voters head of her previous record. Here, too, according to reports to Republican headquarters, the increase includes a larger number of women than men. Those who indicated their party choice aggregated for the entire city, Republican 618,564, Democratic 102,735.

Chicago's registration, completed Tuesday shows an increase of 30 per cent over 1924. The total for the metropolitan area is roughly 1,400,000.

LOG OF ZEP'S ATLANTIC HOP

(Eastern Standard time used throughout.)
Oct. 11—
1:52 a. m.—Started from Fried. richshafen.
3:45 a. m.—Crossed into French territory.
7:25 a. m.—Passed over Lyons, France.
3:15 p. m.—Passed over Tarra-gona, Spain.
Midnight—Passed Gibraltar.
Oct. 12—
9:00 a. m.—Passed over Madeira Islands.
1:00 p. m.—Advised from Horta the Azores, gave Zeppelin's position as about 100 miles south of Azores.
Oct. 13—
3:30 a. m.—Naval radio station at Lakshurst heard message from Zeppelin to unknown ship, giving its position as about halfway between the Madeiras and Bermuda.

Squall Batters Zep (Continued From Page One)

A short time later a second message was received saying the damage had been repaired and that the Zeppelin had resumed full speed. The dispatch added that there was no cause for alarm.

Lakehurst Calls In Vain. NAVAL AIR STATION, LAKE HURST, N. J., Oct. 13.—The naval radio station at Lakehurst buzzed with activity today as it made ineffectual efforts to establish direct communication with the dirigible Graf Zeppelin which has skirted the Azores and is speeding for Lakehurst via the Bermudas.

Ships at sea were calling the Zeppelin but the big air liner was making no reply. It was stated at the radio station here shortly after noon. The Zeppelin's wireless was sending commercial messages but paid no attention to the efforts to obtain her position.

The radio station here has established contact 3,000 miles away on occasions but normally gets little farther than 1,500 miles. Three naval radio operators sat with cocked ears at radio sets and could hear the signals of other stations as they sought to get the Zeppelin to state its position. No attention, however, was paid to such requests.

Reported West of Azores. BERLIN, Oct. 13.—A radiogram received from the Graf Zeppelin at 2:30 o'clock p. m. (8:30 a. m., Eastern standard time) said that the dirigible was then 1,200 kilometers, approximately 750 miles, west of the Azores.

BERLIN, Oct. 13.—The air traffic experimental station continued to maintain direct short wave communication with the Graf Zeppelin at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. The messages were not revealed but it was stated that the dirigible had sent word that all was well aboard.

with slightly more than 44 per cent of the number women.
Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Detroit, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Toledo, also reported heavy increases in registration. St. Louis shows an increase of 60,000 over four years ago. Of this increase 41,648 are women.

"Death by misadventure" was the verdict returned at an inquest in Dublin, Ireland, on a sixteen-months-old child that had swallowed 26 pills containing strychnine.

GOV. AL SMITH MAKES BID FOR KENTUCKY VOTE

Democratic Nominee Speaks Tonight in Louisville.

CORDIAL WELCOME.

Assails Hoover, President Coolidge and Senator Curtis.

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 13.—Coming up from the south where he has spent the last two days, Governor Al Smith brought his presidential candidacy to the Ohio river today.

His special train reached Louisville at 10:30 o'clock this morning. The station and surrounding streets were lined with thousands.

From the L. & N. station, Governor Smith was taken on a parade of the city before going to a hotel for conferences and a rest prior to his speech tonight.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 13.—En route with Gov. Smith in Kentucky, leaving in his wake across Tennessee a series of challenges to Herbert Hoover to debate with him the issues of the campaign, Gov. Al Smith broke over into Kentucky today to make his bid for 13 more electoral votes.

Tonight he speaks in Louisville. His subject will be the tariff.

Kentucky is another border state where the fighting is keen and the outcome in doubt. Always a battleground, Kentucky presents this year probably as hot a conflict as can be found anywhere in the country.

Swings Through Tennessee.

Governor Smith brought his candidacy across the Kentucky border after a whirlwind day in Tennessee, a day which Democratic leaders of the state described as a day of triumph. It included two unscheduled speeches and the greatest ovation and reception Governor Smith has yet encountered in his national campaign travels.

This was in Nashville last night. Nashville residents said it was the biggest crowd and the biggest night the city has experienced since the Armistice celebration of ten years ago.

As a result, Governor Smith left Tennessee with assurances from state leaders who up to now have been none too confident that he will carry the state. Senator Kenneth D. McKellar who is up for reelection, told the governor he would carry the state by "at least 25,000." McKellar himself expects to win by more than 50,000.

Delivers "Fighting Speech."

Yielding finally to the pleas of state leaders for "a real fighting speech" in Tennessee, Governor Smith in Nashville last night went after Mr. Hoover. He included also President Coolidge and Senator Charles Curtis.

He accused his Republican opponent of "evasion, ducking, dodging and confusing" the issues of the campaign—from farm relief to prohibition, from water power to immigration.

Governor Smith contented himself particularly with the speech which Mr. Hoover delivered at Elizabethton, Tenn., last Saturday. He regaled his audience with copious extracts from Mr. Hoover's speech and then would demand, with rich sarcasm:

"What does that mean? Now where does he stand on that?"

It was upon the water power issue that Governor Smith went after his Republican opponent hardest. Water power is a warm issue in Tennessee. Just across the border lies the great Muscle Shoals project, the development and disposition of which means much to Tennessee industry.

Reads Hoover Speech Extracts.

"Let's see what he did say. He said 'There are local instances where the government must enter the business field as a by-product of some great major purpose such as improvement in navigation, flood control, scientific research or national defense.'"

"Anybody that can make anything out of that is entitled to have it."

"I don't know what he can mean by 'by-product' unless it is the generation of power. In another part of his speech he said that violations of the public interest by individuals or corporations 'should not induce us to abandon progressive principles and substitute in their place deadly and destructive doctrines.'"

"I would like to know what Mr. Hoover means by 'deadly and destructive doctrines.' Does he refer to government ownership and control of waterpower sites? If so, why not say it? What is to be gained by clothing it in language that the man on the street is unable to understand?"

"Is public ownership and public development of waterpower deadly? Is it a destructive doctrine? If so, why not let Mr. Hoover come right out and say 'I believe in leasing, or selling, or in disposing of, to private corporations for private development and for private profit, the great waterpower resources that belong to all the people.'"

Reiterates Waterpower Policy.
"That would define the issue. But why evade it? Why conceal it behind a wall of high-sounding phrases that leave in the minds of so many thousands of our people the element of doubt as to his exact position?"

Since his speech, Governor Smith said, Mr. Hoover himself had issued two statements trying to explain his position on Muscle Shoals, "and, if anything at all his position has become more involved."

For himself, the Democratic nominee reiterated his policy of public ownership and public control of waterpower development.

Gov. Smith went into the prohibition issue with the same vigor as he did in Milwaukee.
Again he described present enforcement conditions as farcical, and again he proposed to restore control of this question to the states themselves, subject to congressional limitation on the alcoholic content of beverages.

ASK ZEP CHAIRS ON RETURN HOP

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—George L. Adams, banker and sportsman of Stroudsburg, Pa., has applied for passage for himself and his wife on the return trip of the Graf Zeppelin.

Announcement that Adams was among the score of persons seeking reservations on the dirigible was made here today by Hugh Allen, personal representative in America of Dr. Hugo Eckener, to whom Adams wrote to engage passage.

While price of a passage on the return trip of the Graf Zeppelin has not been fixed it was estimated by Allen at $3,000.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

By W. S. Cousins.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—A melon-cutting U. S. Steel stockholders' perhaps before the end of the year; lowering of the reserve bank rediscount rates; easier call money market conditions; huge expansion in steel and motor car business, foreign trade and all departments of domestic industry constituted Wall Street's principal topics of discussion as industrial stock prices soared 2 1/2 points in the short session of the market today.

Though U. S. Steel corporation directors disclaim all responsibility for the circulation of the melon-cutting rumors, and some of them scolded the stories as absurd and ridiculous, the trading element in and out of Wall Street rushed in to buy the stock again today, bidding new high prices for all shares available and forcing the stock up to 165. Large blocks of steel shares like Bethlehem and Youngstown also advancing a point or two in confident buying.

As usual, Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck ran away from the pack in the high-priced specialties. Montgomery Ward jumped an additional 12 points to 294, completing a gain of 42 points for the week and 175 points for the current movement, one of the most spectacular in speculative records. Sears Roebuck pushed along to 159 1/2 for a new 5-point gain, and a few of the new cheap specialties were placed in the most favorable position by the pools which are fattening their market ventures.

WESTERN UNION VOTES PAY BOOST

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Annual wage increases of approximately $2,000,000 have been granted by the Western Union Telegraph company to "several thousand" employees below the grade of supervisor, according to an announcement made public by the company today. This does not include increases of approximately $1,000,000 previously granted to employees of higher grade.

The pay boost does not become effective until Jan. 1.

TODAY (Continued From Page One)

Mussolini remembers that Napoleon said, "My government could not last two weeks if I allowed liberty to the press."

EXTRAORDINARY are Mussolini's success and good judgment. He appears on the page of history, a cross between Mohammed and Marcus Aurelius, and, apart from his assertion that liberty is an unimportant word, we find little to criticize in his doings, remembering that if Italy had not had Mussolini it would have had anarchy.

SLAUGHTER of the Chinese continues on a horrible scale.

More than 200,000 have been butchered by Mohammedans engaged in a religious war. Missionaries describe the massacres as particularly brutal and cruel, every man, woman and child in the villages attacked being killed, property burned, villages obliterated.

This is and always has been the nature of religious wars—Most vicious and cruel. And to make it worse, Christians know that the Chinese gods and "Allah," in whose name the killing is done, have no existence.

A RAILROAD planning to dig gravel near Edison's birthplace, a kind lady asks an injunction, saying, "You mustn't spoil that sacred scenery."

Thomas A. Edison, practically, would say, "Go ahead and dig the gravel." He knows that one gravel pit more or less won't interfere with his reputation. His name will stand when others of his day are forgotten.

U. S. CHIEFTAIN TELEPHONES TO SPANISH KING

President Coolidge and Monarch Exchange Greeting.

MANY "LISTEN IN"

International Line Carries Warmth of Human Voice.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—President Coolidge and King Alfonso of Spain held a ten-minute radio-telephone conversation today.

The president was seated at a desk at the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and used an ordinary commercial telephone. The telephone systems of United States and Spain were bound together by radio across the Atlantic.

More than a score of instruments had been set up for the use of officials and newspaper correspondents who listened in on the greetings exchanged between Mr. Coolidge and the king. Never before had a president of the United States talked to a ruling European monarch by telephone.

King Speaks in English.

King Alfonso spoke in a decided "English" accent.

"Your majesty, it gives me great pleasure to greet you in the name of the people of the United States," the president said.

"I welcome this added link, no less strong because it is invisible, between Spain and the United States. I believe it to be true that when two men can talk together the danger of any serious disagreement is immeasurably lessened and that what is true of individuals is true of nations. The international telephone, therefore, which carries the warmth and friendliness of the human voice, will always correct what might be misinterpreted in the written word."

Lauds Renunciation of War.

"Whatever brings our two countries closer is of value to us and to the world. This western hemisphere, discovered by the wonderful navigators of Spain, has always owed much to your country. The language of Spain is the language of a great part of the Americas. The fine traditions of Spain are the basis of the culture of a large part of the Americas and our friendship with the great nations to the south draws us closer to the mother country. With your country and with theirs the United States stands for the promotion of world understanding and peace. I was therefore particularly pleased that Spain so promptly and generously adhered to the general pact for the renunciation of war. It was what I expected on the part of your great and peace-loving nation."

"I am especially glad thus orally to greet your majesty because I know the position of great personal responsibility you hold in directing the policies and progress of your country. I wish for your majesty a long and happy life and for your country all the prosperity and happiness which come from wise and benevolent leadership in all those things which make life richer and finer."

King Alfonso's Reply.

In reply the king said: "I heartily reciprocate in my own name and that of Spain the greetings of your excellency."

"Mr. president, I thank you for the cordial words in which you do Spain the honor and justice to recognize your outstanding service to the Americas and I agree we ought to expect from this new medium of communication an ever closer relationship and more perfect understanding between the two peoples."

"I reiterate to your excellency with my salutation the testimony of my sincere appreciation and extend best wishes for the peace and prosperity of the United States."

SOUTHERN CROSS NEARING SYDNEY

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The trans-Pacific plane Southern Cross which left Wellington, New Zealand, at 4:45 o'clock (New Zealand time) to fly across the Tasmanian sea to Sydney, was reported 400 miles from Sydney at 6:30 p. m., according to an exchange telegraph dispatch from Melbourne. The plane encountered a headwind blowing 30 miles an hour, but the airman hoped to land by midnight.

Borah Plans to Trail Gov. Smith Thru South

Republican Will Make Determined Attack Against Democratic Nominee in Invasion of Texas.

By Robert S. Thornburgh.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The first serious effort of the Republican party to "break into" the solid south, Senator Borah (R) of Idaho will depart tomorrow to trail the footsteps of Governor Al Smith, the Democratic nominee, through Virginia, the Carolinas, Tennessee, Kentucky and Texas.

Republican "Ghq" announced today that Borah would make a particularly determined attack against Smith in Texas, speaking at Dallas October 22, and from that time would follow the Democratic candidate until he gets back to New York City just before the election.

Texas Democrats Urge Tour.

Borah was personally delegated by Herbert Hoover for the campaign through the south. This action was taken after Thomas B. Love, and a delegation of Texas Democrats who have climbed off the Smith vehicle, informed Hoover that his appearance in Texas would mean the Lone Star state in the Republican column in November.

Hoover told the committee that if he couldn't speak in Texas he would send one of the leaders of his shock troops, Senator Borah. The action in detailing Borah for the job is taken to mean that Hoover will not speak in Texas, although further developments as the campaign takes shape may change the situation.

Senator Opens in Virginia.

Borah opens his tour Monday night at Richmond, Va. He will successively speak at Charlotte, Knoxville, and Louisville before he goes into Texas.

"This is the first national effort staged by the Republican party to win Texas," Borah said. "I am entirely agreeable to this fight and am going south because Mr. Hoover asked me to go."

Borah, according to Republican leaders, is proving one of the most effective speakers in the Hoover camp and great satisfaction was expressed at his willingness to invade the "solid south."

Curtis to Speak in South.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Senator Charles Curtis, Republican vice-presidential candidate was back at his desk today for a short rest.

Monday night Curtis is scheduled to open a southern campaign at Raleigh, N. C.

LABORER DIES UNDER SLAG MASS

CLEVELAND, Oct. 13.—Buried under 75 tons of slag, Joseph Novak, 39, a laborer, was smothered to death here today. Novak was standing on a plank over a pit into which a load of slag was being dumped when the plank broke, dropping him underneath the falling mass.

THREE AIRPLANES VISIT AIRPORT

Three passenger Waco planes from Ellwood City, Pa., will engage in passenger carrying flights from the Chamber of Commerce airport in Madison township this afternoon and all day tomorrow, the chamber's aviation committee announced today.

NINE ARE KILLED IN TRAIN WRECK

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Nine persons were killed and many injured today when a speeding express train collided with a freight train near Stroud, Gloucestershire.

FREE COOKING SCHOOL OPENS NEXT TUESDAY

Mrs. Frances Northcross Will Discuss House-keeping.

DAILY LECTURES

Four-Day Session in Eagles' Temple, Broadway.

Housekeeping, particularly cooking, from a practical standpoint will be discussed by Mrs. Frances Northcross, New York home economic expert, at the Review's fourth annual free cooking school which will be conducted in the Eagles' auditorium, Broadway, next Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons.

Doors of the auditorium will open at 1 o'clock, the two-hour lecture and demonstration by Mrs. Northcross beginning at 2 o'clock. An hour's program of music will be presented while women are being seated.

"Any new housekeeping principle," says Mrs. Northcross, "will be judged by the housewife in the light of her particular problems. The value of any suggestion will appeal to one woman from the standpoint, and to another from an entirely different angle."

"To one housekeeper, a new idea must represent a reduction in house-keeping expense. Her family budget may be strained to the breaking point to meet the demands of menu planning. Any method relieving that condition will be welcome. If an appliance or an ingredient promises to reduce expense, the idea is interesting to that woman as an economy, if for no other reason."

"Another woman may be concerned almost solely with ideas for making her kitchen or her home in general more inviting. Beautiful kitchens of colorful finish and perfect equipment do add untold comfort and pleasure to some women, and very often the item of cost does not enter especially into the matter."

"To be able to save time in housework is another woman's main desire. In this day of complex interests in school affairs, welfare work, political activity and social relations, very often many such interests looking to the business or other ambitions of the husband, women have a genuine enthusiasm over devices known to save several hours a day in housework."

The cooking school will feature labor-saving utensils and devices as well as methods of cookery of special interest to women who are interested in lightening the duties of housework.

COOPER, DAVEY RESUME STUMPING

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 13.—Myers Y. Cooper, Cincinnati, Republican gubernatorial nominee, was speaking today in Lorain county. Congressman Martin L. Davey, Kent, Democratic nominee for governor was to speak today at Delaware and Mt. Gleason and tonight at Mt. Vernon it was announced at the respective state headquarters.

Canton's Oldest Surgeon Dea.

CANTON, O., Oct. 13.—Dr. Austin Coleman Brant, 76, oldest practicing surgeon in Stark county, was dead at his home here today, having succumbed to neuritis last night. Dr. Brant was nationally known. He was born at Hayesville, Ashland county.

CHURCH-GOERS TO HEAR SOLOIST

Signor Antonio Papania, Italian tenor, who will be featured in a concert to be presented in the high school auditorium Tuesday night, October 23, for the benefit of the police pension and relief fund, will appear in two East Liverpool churches tomorrow.

Signor Papania has an international reputation as a vocalist, being called a second Caruso because of his powerful voice. He has sung in many large cities of the United States. The East Liverpool concert was arranged after Chief of Police Hugh McDer-mott heard him sing at a police convention in Buffalo this summer. He is a cousin of Gus Martino, East End wholesale fruit dealer, whom he met recently for the first time in 15 years.

Three other artists will assist Signor Papania in the East Liverpool concert, a harpist, violinist and a pianist.

consin, evangelist. The public is invited.

Neither great men nor great products require a long story about their virtues. Their very manner of existence and daily accomplishments tell all that the onlooker needs for appreciation and endorsement. Certain automobiles, for example, have won such confidence that no high-pressure selling is required. Their makers know that all the world would own them. And so with Kolster Radio. Such performance and distinguished appearance have created a powerful structure of confidence within the public mind. Glowing praise is irrelevant when this exists. It is enough to hear on all sides the quiet remark:

IT IS HARVEST HOME SUNDAY

The Church will be decorated with grain, fruits, flowers and vegetables. Special thanksgiving music will be rendered by the choir with Miss Mildred Weaver at the organ. There are three wonderful services if you can not come to all three, or to two, and if not two, come to at least one. Episcopalians—let's all attend the early 7:30 A. M. communion service. The services are as follows:

7:30 A. M. Holy Communion

9:30 A. M. Church School

11:00 A. M. Morning Prayer and Sermon

7:30 P. M. Evensong and Sermon

Now try hard to attend.

Lord of the harvest, thee we hail
Thine ancient promise doth not fail;
The varying seasons haste their round,
With goodness all our years are crowned;
Our thanks we pay,
This holy day,
Oh, let our hearts in tune be found.

$30,000 ASKED IN THREE DAMAGE ACTIONS AS AUTO CRASH AFTERMATH

John Stayton, Leetonia, Named Defendant in Suits Filed by Mrs. Mary L. Schafer and Children.

LISBON, O., Oct. 13.—Three damage actions, totaling $30,000, have been filed in common pleas court against John Stayton of Leetonia, as a result of an automobile wreck at the intersection of Broadway and Franklin avenue, Salem, on Sept. 24.

In the suit filed by Mrs. Mary Lee Schafer, aged 25 years, of 105 Perry street, Salem, $5,000 damage is sought because of injuries sustained, and $10,000 damage is asked in the petition filed by Virginia Lee Schafer, 2, through her next friend, Paul Schafer, in the suit filed by Jean F. Schafer, aged 7, by her next friend, her father, $15,000 damage is sought.

The petitions, filed by Attorney C. H. Dyson of Youngstown, charge that Stayton drove his automobile out of Franklin avenue, Salem, and crashed into a Ford car driven by Mrs. Scha-

When Kidneys Slow Up Give Help Promptly.

MANY folks sacrifice health by failing to heed early danger signals.

This is particularly true of kidney disorders. A drowsy listless feeling, lameness and stiffness, constant back-ache and bladder irregularities are often timely warnings.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's, a stimulant diuretic, increase the activity of the kidneys and thus aid them in carrying off waste impurities. Recommended by thousands.

E. PALESTINE ROAD JOB IS RUSHED

The last concrete probably will be poured today by Lewis & Copeland, contractors, on the Middleletown township section of the East Palestine-East Liverpool road. If so, this section will be opened probably on Nov. 4.

This stretch extends from the Middleletown-St. Clair township line on the south to Richardson avenue, Negley, where a connection is made with the macadam and concrete road extending from Negley into East Palestine.

The St. Clair township section of this road is to be surfaced next spring.

DEFENSE WINS DAMAGE SUIT

A jury in common pleas court Friday afternoon returned a verdict in favor of the defendant in the case of Bert Coverstone of Sidney, O., against R. A. Cavenaugh of Leetonia. In this proceeding the defendant sought $5,067.30 damages resulting from his arrest. Because of the illness of one juror, counsel by agreement allowed the case to be deliberated with 11 jurors.

Coverstone was arrested for passing a worthless check, and was returned to this county by Sheriff George Wright. He was not convicted of this charge.

The jury took only one ballot, voting unanimously for the defendant.

Made Defendant in Attachment Action

The Kensington State Bank company and the Citizens' Banking company have been made defendant upon their own motion in the attachment of S. L. Andrews against James Hanlon.

Named Foreclosure Case Defendants.

In the foreclosure proceeding of Annie M. Reed against John C. Luton and others, the First National bank of East Liverpool and the East Liverpool Sand & Gravel company, have been made parties defendant on their own motion. The Windland Brothers' Lumber company, also of East Liverpool, in this action has also been granted leave to file its answer and cross petition.

Sues For $25,000 Damages.

A motion to the petition has been sustained in the case of Rosa Pucel against the Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company, wherein the plaintiff seeks $25,000 damages.

PLAN ARMISTICE DAY SERVICES

John Welch post, American Legion will observe Armistice day this year with a religious service in the Lisbon opera house beginning at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, Nov. 11. The program is now being arranged by the Rev. J. M. Cotton, pastor of the Presbyterian church, who is a former service man.

In former years the Armistice day observance in Lisbon, sponsored by John Welch post, has been on an elaborate scale, but because of the anniversary falling on Sunday this year, the plan has been changed.

FREDERICK SUIT IN U. S. COURT

Judge W. F. Lones has transferred the $50,000 damage action of Albina Frederick, administratrix of the estate of Henry Frederick, to the United States district court. The American Oil company is the defendant, and the petition sets up that Frederick died as a result of injuries sustained while employed by the oil company in East Palestine.

Orders New Appraisement.

A former appraisement has been set aside and a new appraisement has been ordered by the court in the foreclosure action of the Pottery Savings & Loan company, against Alice B. Cartwright of East Liverpool. An order of sale has been directed by the court.

File 80 Court Cases Since Sept. 14.

Since the current bar docket was issued on Sept. 14, by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine, 80 new cases have been filed and placed on the appearance docket. At least one-third have been divorce and alimony petitions.

Germany's wave of adult education is said to be subsiding.

Managerial Changes Predicted As "Stovers" Go Into Session

Moriarity Will "Quit"; Killefer Off to Boston If Bruins Get Hornsby

Detroit Pilot's Resignation, in Favor of Harris, Expected Soon; Johnson Prepares to Take Helm at Washington.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Alladdin never exactly took me into his confidence about the matter but I have always felt that he thought his second footman was an awful sap when he fell for that dodge about new lamps for old. It was so obvious, like a pop fly to the third baseman—bound to be a catch in it somewhere. Thus, the folly of existence; out with the old, in with the new. There are a lot of guys hanging around the baseball offices today, smoothing their hair with one hand and hold their hat with the other.

If George Moriarity doesn't resign as manager of Detroit ball club within the next twenty-four hours, he is likely to do so early next week, paving the way for the announcement that Stanley Harris has been appointed in his stead. Harris, a world's champion in his own right only four years ago, is ringing presidential door bells now and is believed to have made a sale with Frank Navin out in Detroit. They are understood to have had a conference during the world series, and since it was followed by Moriarity's decision to step down, the hook up of these circumstances hardly can be said to lack significance.

It may not be long, either, before Bill Killefer, former manager of the Cubs and present coach of the Browns, is announced as the new manager of the Boston Braves. This, perhaps, cannot happen until such time if at all, as Rogers Hornsby is passed along to the Cubs.

If Harris doesn't go to Detroit, it will mean that he has overplayed his hand. As early as mid-season of this year, he told friends that he thought the Detroit job was his, Griffith having given him permission to peddle himself where he might. The parting of this pair had become inevitable by that time, somewhat to their mutual regret, and so greatly did Griffith esteem the young man that, in that impulsive way of his, it is said he deplored the idea of marketing Harris' services for money or its equivalent. I am sure I'm violating no impulse so unworthy of the best traditions.

There also is said to be a possibility that Harris will go to Cleveland as a player. But that only becomes likely in the event that the Detroit club lacks attraction. Harris' last contract as player-manager called for $33,000 a year, the league's ranking price on managerial piece work. Arthur Fletcher, coach of the Yankees, was understood to have been considered by Navin. So was Donie Bush.

Walter Johnson will get the Washington club, Griff now says, provided the old pitcher can be weaned away from Paul Block in Newark. Johnson thought he should have been named some years ago instead of Harris and, during the world series, he declared that he wasn't interested now. What he meant to say was that he had lost all interest in posing his chin aloft for another rap, in case there was one coming.

Wilcemen Play First Big 10 Foe

Hope to Avenge 1927 Defeat by Northwestern.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 13.—One third of Chicago's three-ring football exhibition will get underway here this balmey day when Ohio State's Buckeyes try to pop another game off the broad shoulders of Northwestern's purple wildcats.

Six other times in seven meets the boys of good Dr. Wilce accomplished this trick. Last year they didn't. This year Coach Dick Hanley has practically the same machine he piloted a year ago, and everybody is hoping that Doc Wilce will note some changes after today's joust.

Furnishing competition to this game, Notre Dame meets the Navy and the Iowa Cornhuskers butt it out with Chicago.

The probable starting lineup for the Buckeye-Methodist tilt will be:

WOOD CAPTURES GREENFIELD FLY

East Liverpool District Homing club recently held its last young bird race of the season from Greenfield, Ind. In their 300-mile flight the birds had to face a strong wind, the first finisher making the distance in eight hours, 32 minutes. John Wood's left cooped both first and second places with "Babe" and "Lou" capturing the gold medals for the best average speed, 100 to 300 miles.

carried the pigskin down the field for a touchdown, and he knows the game of football like few who are tramping down the sod on the grid-irons today.

After all these years as an active participant it must seem strange to Johnny to mingle with the crowd in the grandstands and be justified by the thousands who pour in at the turnstiles. And especially so when he looks back to the day when he first started to play and realized what tremendous strides the games has made.

Miss Victoria Drummond, England's first woman sea-going engineer, recently left London for Calcutta.

LOOK OUT OVERHEAD!

WITH Art Goebel in his now famous Yankee Doodle plane busting speed records from Los Angeles to Cincinnati by stepping on the gas to the tune of 136 miles an hour—with the air mails cutting down by days the time of delivery from coast to coast—with air taxis slashing the travel hours between this town and that, it is natural to expect that the footballers all over the country are going to do more with the aerial attack this season than ever before.

It wasn't so many years ago that the forward pass was an unheard of ground gainer but at that time the idea of going from coast to coast in less than a day was also being ridiculed.

Times change. The aeroplanes were being perfected and the value of the forward pass was being realized. Last fall a forward pass from Johnny Hoben to Dwight Fishwick busted up the Princeton-Yale game and was one of the most dramatic illustrations of the value of the aerial play.

Glancing through the statistics covering the football season of 1927-28, it is found that in 251 cases touchdowns were the direct result of aerial passes. That's a lot of touchdowns and the fact that these markers can be directly traced to the forward pass is sufficient reason why coaches everywhere this year are training their men in the business of hurling the pigskin.

The play used to be considered as one which carried with it an excess amount of unnecessary risk and many coaches saw no reason to gamble when they could still gain ground with the old line plunging methods and by resort to booting in tight places. However, there were a few coaches, especially in the west, who saw the tremendous value in the play and were willing to take chances. When the play was completed successfully the ground gained made up for the gamble.

The east was slow in adopting the heave. Rockne, of Notre Dame, used it successfully against the Army the first year the teams met, and the following season the eastern coaches decided to give it a trial. It has been increasing in popularity ever since.

No one seems to know exactly who is responsible for the introduction of the heave. Credit is given variously to Rockne, Pop Warner, Johnny Heisman and Yost. No matter where it

High Reserves Defeated at Newell, 18-12

West Virginians Hang Up First Win of Season.

Newell high gridders broke into the win column yesterday afternoon when they took over the local high reserves, 18 to 12, on the Newell gridiron.

The West Virginians held the edge in the first half, Smith scoring a touchdown in the first period on an end run and Manson plunging the line for six more points in the second quarter.

The reserves, however, outclassed their foes in the last two periods. Clark registered a touchdown at the kick-off in the third when he picked up a fumble and ran 20 yards. Later in the same stanza the Newell eleven scored its final touchdown and the one that won. Staats blocked Small's punt and fell on it back of the reserves' goal for a touchdown.

The visitors annexed their second touchdown in the closing period when Peters broke through the Newell defense for a 30-yard run.

originated it has become a part and parcel of the gridiron pastime and this season it is sure to be used more often than ever before.

No doubt the usefulness of the forward pass and the efficiency with which the heaves are made will be the deciding factor in some of the outstanding games of the year, just as was the case last year in the Princeton-Yale combat. Johnny Hoben, who did the tossing which decided that struggle last fall, is adept at heaving the pigskin and already in early practice has shown improvement over last season. Hoben is a hard player and the fact that he was out of the lineup for a few days early in the training grind is an indication that he is going to be in the thick of the fight while he is quarterbacking for the Elks.

Today Yale meets Georgia. Last year the Athens Bulldogs gave the Elks team its only defeat of the season. Today Yale will be playing to avenge that defeat, and it is not at all unlikely that Hoben and his long heaves will figure in Yale's scoring.

Eddie Walsh, Junior, Follows Trail Blazed by Famous Dad

Youngster Makes Great Start With Chicago White Sox This Season and Looks Like Comer.

IT'S really remarkable how few of the really great baseball players have sons who follow in their footsteps. An iceman's son may learn the intricate handling of the ice tongs and become another iceman to take the weight of hundred-pound cakes off the shoulders of the old man when he gets ready to retire. A banker may rear his toothless offspring up to be another banker, and it's natural for a doctor's son to take up the sawing and hacking business when he grows up. But what becomes of the male offspring of left-handed pitchers and baseball players in general? Or do they have sons? We haven't heard of many.

This question is one of those interesting sidelights on the national pastime. Back in 1907 the Chicago White Sox had a star pitcher. He was with the Sox prior to that time, but it was in 1907 that he reached the pinnacle of fame by winning 40 victories out of 55 games pitched. That's what one would refer to nowadays as establishing a reputation on the hill. It was a reputation even back in 1907, and is one which will probably be remembered forever in baseball.

That flier's name was Ed Walsh. Aside from making a remarkable record for himself "Big Ed" loved kids and he spent many mornings at the White Sox park in Chicago teaching the youngsters the fine points of the game. When his overworked arm gave out and he was no longer able to accept a steady pitching assignment he found a new pupil. It was his son.

Early in his life Young Ed started to shine in athletics. At St. John's Prep School in Danvers, Mass., he took an active part in football, basketball and baseball. Following this he matriculated at Notre Dame where his father was the baseball coach and soon became one of the best of the college twirlers.

Young Ed didn't waste any time in getting from the classrooms to the big leagues and it was natural for him to sign up with the same team on which his dad had made his reputation.

Natural, especially in view of the fact that his dad is now coaching the White Sox pitchers.

So a few weeks ago the fans had an opportunity to see a sight which seldom, if ever, has been duplicated in major league history. A father, a famous pitcher in his own right some twenty years ago—sitting on the bench to coach his son between innings.

In the starts he has made during the past season young Ed looks like a real prospect. He undoubtedly needs additional coaching and experience. It is a certainty that he will get additional coaching during the coming winter with a capable coach living in the same house with him.

It is still too early to say just exactly how good Young Ed will be—how nearly he will approximate the reputation of Big Ed. Right now he seems to have a lot of stuff on the ball and if coaching will make him better, he will surely report for training next spring a much improved youngster.

Despite the fact that few sons of noted fathers have made good on the diamond, the fans who perch around the White Sox park are all pulling for the youngster and hoping that he has the goods.

And thousands of fans elsewhere are hoping so, too.

Yale-Georgia Scrimmage is East's Feature

Elis Weakened by Absence of Four Regulars.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 13.—Weakened by the absence of four regulars and lack of preparatory scrimmages, Yale today faced a veteran Georgia eleven which marred the record of the Elis last year by handing them their only defeat of the season.

Johnny Garvey, Yale's best ball carrier, Johnny Hoben, veteran quarterback, and Firpo Greene and Jim Stewart, regular guards, will be on the sidelines, although Garvey may be used in an emergency. Butch Lund, varsity baseball pitcher, will start in Garvey's position.

A crowd of 35,000 was expected to witness the intersectional battle.

IRONDALE WINS THIRD STRAIGHT

Irondale high gridders registered their third straight win of the season yesterday afternoon at Smithfield, finishing on the long end of a 21 to 6 count. Sperand scored two of the Irondale touchdowns. Staley the other. Chetock was responsible for two points after touchdown while Sperand contributed the third.

The Irondale squad holds victories also over Newell and Salineville.

Chicago Stadium Jammed

120,000 Expected to See Notre Dame-Navy Clash.

By Jimmy Corcoran.
SOLDIER FIELD, Chicago, Oct. 13.—Uncle Sam's Sailors and Uncle Knute Rockne's Ramblers will endeavor to prove to the football world today that they are not so terrible after all when they clash on Soldier field before the largest crowd that ever saw a football game.

It is a good guess now that 120,000 people will be jammed inside the stadium at kick-off time, because every seat has been sold for this exchange of tumbles.

Quite the strangest thing about the whole affair is that the game doesn't mean a thing as far as any kind of a football title is concerned. Notre Dame may yet win the championship of Indiana and the Navy may carry all precincts in the vicinity of Annapolis. But that's about all.

Yet, one would think the eleven were battling for a national championship. The answer probably is Notre Dame. Up or down, the Irish are colorful. But let's not forget the Navy, and its share. There are gold stripes by the bushel in town, military bands and things.

South Flavors Today's Grid Card in East

Intersectional Battles Add to Variety of Program.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—There is a strong southern flavor to eastern football today. The south is sending a number of its strongest representatives into the northern gridiron belt, most of the contests should be close, if fought.

Yale grapples with Georgia in the New Haven bowl. Harvard entertains North Carolina at Cambridge. Princeton acts as host to Virginia at Tiger-town. Colgate brings Virginia Poly back to Hamilton to take revenge for the humbling the Virginia Engineers subjected them to last season. Cornell tackles Hampton Sidney at Ithaca in the hope of increasing their scoring total.

Besides these intersectional battles there is Pennsylvania's annual squabble with Swarthmore at Philadelphia, the Penn State-Bucknell battle at State College, the annual mixup between Pitt and West Virginia, a fight between traditional rivals.

Local games include New York university-Fordham at the Polo grounds, Columbia-Wesleyan at Baker field, and Holy Cross-Rutgers at Newark, N. J.

Measuring six feet 11 inches from tip to tip of its wings, an eagle was recently killed by a sportsman on the Laval Plain near Cannes, France. It required two shots to bring down the bird, which was then killed with the butt end of a gun.

Tourists to Ireland during the past summer numbered 16,000 more than in the corresponding season of 1927.

Romance in New York

By GILBERT ROGERS

Florence Clark had vanished. From the room on the right, Sally thought she heard a faint sound of whispering. But in here she was alone with Carlotta.

"I had to see you," Mrs. Brooke said simply. "You know—there was no one else who—could help me."

"Help you?"

"I'm in trouble. Sally, I'm in desperate trouble. Oh, Mrs. Dan Shevlin I'm talking about of course. Don't let's pretend—please don't let's pretend." She leaned over, caught Sally's hands.

But Sally said slowly: "I don't see how I could help you in anything. But if I could—do you really expect me to after what's happened?"

It was like Mrs. Brooke to be honest. "Oh, I was afraid to you. I admit it. You know why—I was jealous. And you—you're so much younger than I am. I couldn't bear seeing the way Dan looked at you. But really and truly, I never actually hated you. All the time I was so unpleasant, I knew I was being unfair."

"Perhaps," said Sally, "but it isn't that alone. You sent Jerry Evesham to Shevlin's apartment the afternoon I was there. That's about the worst thing that anyone could have done."

Into Mrs. Brooke's almost haggard eyes there burned a fleeting look of something hostile and ruthless.

"Why, shouldn't I have done that? Wouldn't you—wouldn't any woman have done the same? That's why I wouldn't even say good-by to you—I guessed you were going to see Dan in New York. Oh, I knew you didn't like Dan—I didn't care about that. But he liked you. So I told that boy he'd probably find you there."

Sally gave a little bitter laugh. "Why do you think I went to see Dan Shevlin? Perhaps you ought to know. I went there to plead with him, to beg him not to show to Jerry Evesham that foolish, foolish letter I wrote."

Then suddenly Carlotta Brooke said in a voice of pleading: "Sally don't hold it against me. Don't hold anything against me. I've been half out of my head these last months. What does it matter what I did. You can hate me if you want to. Only—only help me!"

The sincerity of that frank appeal touched Sally in spite of herself.

"I don't hate you. I guess I couldn't hate you, Carlotta. But I don't see how I could help you—ever."

Mrs. Brooke sighed. She said as if to herself in a weak little voice as she dabbed her eyes. "I'm very unhappy."

Sally watched her gravely. She felt strangely calm now, as if she were an older, experienced woman to whom a girl had come for advice. She understood Carlotta Brooke so clearly, with her feminine generosity and impulsiveness, her feminine ruthlessness and weakness—someone who lived by instinct, who wasn't very good perhaps, but who was lovable in spite of that.

Sally's mind flew for an instant to a small room down town where a sick boy smiled up into the eyes of his cousin. Love—it seemed to make people unhappy, often as not. She and Carlotta—after all, there wasn't so much difference between them, between the way they felt now.

"He came back. He seemed changed—worse than he'd ever been before to me. Then he told me he was through. Told me he was going to leave me. He means it, he really means it! I lost my head last night. I said things, wild things, and he was horrible to me—horrible! Sally, if he leaves me, I'll die, I'll really die."

But Sally protested, "how can I—what could I possibly do?"

"There's no one else for me to go to. No one else who knows everything—the way you do. If you—talked to him, told him what it would mean to me. Maybe he'd believe you. Maybe he wouldn't laugh at you the way he laughed at me."

"Talked to him?" Sally looked in amazement. "But Carlotta—what good on earth—I mean, you must know it wouldn't matter what anyone said to him."

Mrs. Brooke bit her lip. "Well, you're making me say something I hate saying. It's—it's that you have some influence with him. Because he likes you. I know he likes you. You could probably get him to do anything you wanted."

"I wasn't able to stop him from showing that letter."

"Please help me, please do something!" Mrs. Brooke whispered tragically, her eyes looking hollow than before.

"I wish I could, but I don't see—I can't just ask him not to—no go away, can I?"

"You can do something if you want to," said Mrs. Brooke soberly. "He's still there—he doesn't care what happens now. The servants are talking—it won't be long before everybody knows. He's up there, waiting for Adrian Martin to come back to Newport. When he's seen him, he says he's going to go. That made me desperate. And I thought of you—the only friend I have—and how badly I've treated you."

Sally began to see. It was not anything that she could do really which made Carlotta Brooke want her near. It was just for the sake of someone to confide in, someone to console her. It wasn't real help she wanted so much as it was sympathy, understanding.

As she thought that, an idea did come to her, an idea that she wondered not having thought of before.

"But—you could make him do anything you want. You could threaten to expose him, to tell the police he was a blackmailer—"

Mrs. Brooke shivered. "I wouldn't dare. I just wouldn't dare."

"Well, I would!" said Sally almost defiantly.

"You?"

"Yes, I haven't anything to lose any more."

Carlotta Brooke considered swiftly. "Do that for me then, won't you?" she pleaded.

"Oh, but—" Sally protested, "just forcing him to come back, forcing him not to run away—you wouldn't want that!"

"Yes. No. I don't know. But—but it might be some good. You could make him stop from going on black-mailing maybe. Oh, Sally, that would make me happy!"

"I don't know."

"I don't know."

Carlotta had caught her hands, was speaking earnestly, beseechingly.

"You've got to come back with me. I tell you I can't stand it all alone. I'll go mad if I have to worry out things and not have a soul to speak to. I don't dare talk to Mark. Sometimes—sometimes I'm afraid my own brother hates me. . . . Sally, tell me you'll come back with me, and do what you said you would!"

"All right," said Sally suddenly. "I suppose you want to get back as soon as possible?"

"To-night. There's no time to lose. Sally, someday I'll help you—I really will, even though now I can't even help myself!"

CHAPTER 38.

Was she really on her way back? The thought had drummed in her ears all night long on the sleeper. Newport—to which, she thought, she had said good-by for always—Newport lay ahead of her.

In Sally's dreams, between sleep and waking, there moved hazily doubts as to whether all this was not actually a nightmare.

What did the girls think anyway? Her sudden, mysterious departures, her mysterious arrivals and absences, and never any explanation for them! Florence Clark's eyes had been round and wondering. Billie Graham had picked at the arm of her chair and not looked up. What discussions they must be having about her, what speculations! But they were fond of her, every one of them, and loyal to her. She was glad to know that they lived, and wished that someday she might be able to show how grateful she was for their simple affection.

Less simple was the world into which she was now going, and less happy. Why was she going to try to do this thing?

B. C. COLCORD APPOINTED MEMBER OF MIDLAND BOARD OF EDUCATION

Blast Furnace Superintendent Fills Vacancy Caused by Resignation of R. E. Schmertz.

B. C. Colcord, Ohio avenue, superintendent of the blast furnace of the Crucible Steel company plant, was appointed a member of the board of education Thursday night to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of
R. E. Schmertz, former assistant superintendent of the finishing mill at the Crucible plant, who has been transferred to the Park plant in Pittsburgh. Colcord's term expires in December, 1929.

The board awarded a contract for a Ford sedan to The Mid-City Motor company. The car will be used by the school nurse.

A resolution adopted provides that all non-resident students must pay tuition in advance.

Another resolution abolished the mid-year commencement exercises until such time as the mid-term class is large enough to justify the plan. The students who complete their courses in mid-year will be permitted to enter college, leave school or take additional studies, but they must attend the spring commencement exercises in order to obtain diplomas.

MAN FATAALLY HURT IN FALL

J. C. Beightley, Beaver Falls, Jolted From Truck.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 13.—Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the home of Mrs. William Bowers, Twenty-first street, for James C. Beightley, 45, who died yesterday in the Beaver Valley General hospital, New Brighton, from a fractured skull, sustained when he was jolted from a truck owned by Harry W. Butler, Beaver Falls plumber.

Until a year ago Beightley was a member of the Beaver Falls police department. He had served more than 25 years in the United States army, participating in both the Spanish-
American and the World wars.

He leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs.
Milton Beightley; three brothers,
John, Charles, and Roy, and one sister, Mrs. Bowers, all of Beaver Falls.

LAUNCH SECOND STEEL TOWBOAT

Midland Craft Named in Honor of C. W.
Talbot.

MIDLAND, Pa., Oct. 13.—The second of three modern steel towboats being constructed by the Midland
Barge company, for the Union Barge Line corporation, Pittsburgh, was launched yesterday in the Ohio river, without the usual ceremonies. The boat was named the C. W. Talbot, in honor of the grandfather of Charles T. Campbell, president of the barge line. Talbot was one of the pioneers of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. It is expected to launch the third and last towboat next week.

TWO NEW OFFICES FOR JUNIOR C. E.

coats were imported into South Africa in the past year.

OPEN COTTAGE PRAYER MEETS TUESDAY NIGHT

Services in 19 Sections
for Billy Sunday Revival.

DAILY RALLIES

Tabernacle on Playlot
Rapidly Nearing Completion.

Co-operating churchmen in the forthcoming Billy Sunday revival will formally begin the preliminary work to the planned series of meetings on next Tuesday night with initial cottage prayer services at strategic points in 19 different sections of the city.

Thus begun concerted action in varying forms will continue uninterruptedly, Rev. L. J. Davidson, of the campaign executive committee, announced yesterday, until the opening day of the event, Sunday Nov. 4.

The tabernacle, Second and Washington streets, is rapidly nearing completion. The roof has been finally installed, seats almost altogether installed and windows and doors inserted throughout its length and breadth.

Watchman on Duty.
Because of its near completed stage
a night watchman has been on guard during the non-working hours. The lighting system is being connected before the opening of the building.

Sawdust is being hauled to the lot and shortly will be spread on the floor surface of the auditorium.

To obviate water entering the structure following a rainstorm a small ditch will be placed about the building. This will make possible also the lengthening of the siding to be added to the walls and prevent the entrance of cold air beneath the sides of the structure.

Jurist Hits Sawdust Trail.
Announcement was received yesterday by Russell C. Heddleston, of the decision to accept Christianity by Common Pleas Judge Hughett at the Billy Sunday revival in Madisonville,
Ky., last Sunday evening.

Mr. Heddleston, attending a district meeting of Kiwanis clubs as international trustee, dined with Judge
Hughett and Superintendent of Schools
Harper Gatton of Madisonville at Nashville, Tenn., just before leaving that city last Saturday. On Monday,
Mr. Gatton wrote to Mr. Heddleston advising him of Judge Hughett's action.

Organizing Choir.
Final plans for the cottage prayer services will be completed during the interim remaining by the Rev. F. A.
Dean, D. D., pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, and a committee having the work in charge.

Following the directions of Advance
Man Albert Peterson, now in Madisonville, Ky., George Brokaw of the building committee, is rounding out the remaining work necessary for the completion of the tabernacle.

Singers for the augmented choir to be used during the campaign are now being enlisted by Prof. Hugh F.
Laughlin. With Mr. Peterson he will give them initial training.

MOTHER AND TOT DIE ON CROSSING

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 13.—Mrs. Isabell Eisele, 30, and her four-year-old daughter, Patricia, were dead here today, and Mrs. John Puskar, 33, was being treated for shock, the result of a grade crossing crash on the B. & O. railroad yesterday. Two other persons escaped injury.

Driven by Mrs. Puskar, the automobile in which all were riding became stalled in the path of a fast approaching freight. All occupants escaped from the stalled motor car in ample time but Mrs. Eisele, carrying her baby, tripped and fell directly in front of the train. She and the child were killed instantly.

NEW DOUGH MIXER FOR SMITH BAKERY

Joseph Smith, St. Clair avenue
baker, has installed a $2,400 Allison Century high speed mixing machine.
The mixer, manufactured by the Century Machine company of Cincinnati, is operated at two speeds by a 15-horsepower electric motor. The low speed makes 40 revolutions a minute and the high speed 70. Dough may be thoroughly mixed within eight minutes after the flour is dumped into the receiving bins.

The flour before passing into the mixing tub is run through a fine screen by means of which every particle of dirt is removed. Dough sufficient to make 400 one and one-half pounds of bread loaves can be mixed in one batch. The machine is equipped with electric switches by means of which the mixing blades can be stopped instantly in case of an accident.

CARD OF THANKS.
We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their assistance and kindness during the recent illness and death of our dear wife and mother.

Especially do we thank our good pastor, Rev. G. W. White, and Rev.
W. B. Woodson, the singers and members of Lee's Chapel choir for their expressions of sympathy, the employees of the Globe brick company, and others who sent the beautiful floral offerings, and those who donated the use of their cars.

JAMES R. GILES AND FAMILY.

Dolores Costello in "Glorious Betsy" with Conrad Nagel and John Miljan Marc McDermott Betty Blythe

BASED ON THE PLAY BY RITA JOHNSON YOUNG
SCENARIO BY ANTHONY COLDWAY

STORY IN BRIEF

Betsy Patterson, belle of Baltimore, is summering in old Virginia, while being tutored in French, by a gallant youth who turns out to be Jerome Bonaparte, brother of the Emperor Napoleon.

The two fall in love and are married, returning to France where Napoleon detains Jerome to marry him to a German princess, and sends Betsy back to America.

On the eve of Jerome's marriage to the foreign lady, he escapes, sails back to the United States and hastens to "Glorious Betsy."
